IN YOUR SHADOW

Words & Music from some of the musicals of
DENNIS A. WESTGATE

Hello there,

Since my retirement from business in 2005, I've been able to pursue a lifetime's ambition, i.e. to write for the musical stage. I now have sufficient material to present a portfolio of new musicals suitable for performance by Schools, Colleges, Theatrical Societies, Youth clubs or anyone looking for new and original material.

To date I have composed 15 full length musical plays of varying complexities (some have already been performed on the amateur stage). The majority of my work leans towards the 15 - 25yr age group, with many individual starring roles, to give as many performers as possible an opportunity to shine in their own right.

'In Your Shadow' is a collection of original songs from some of these musicals. I trust you will at least find one or two to your liking.

This is the first of ten albums covering a wide range of styles and difficulties, from solo pieces to choral works.

I DON'T LOVE HIM ANYMORE

The way he made me feel
 When standing close to him
 He was the everything
 I thought I ever wanted
 Now I find that we are worlds apart
 And there's an empty heart
 Where love once grew

How can I tell him
 I don't love him anymore
 Can I just walk away
 And say this love affair is over

I look into his eyes
 And see a stranger there
 The pain is hard to bear
 When all is just pretending
 Once we laughed
 As children do at play
 I wish that yesterday was long ago

If I should tell him
 I don't love him anymore
 How will I ever know
 there'll be another bright tomorrow

I lie awake each night
 And play at counting sheep
 I find it hard to sleep,
 I sometimes wake up crying
 From my heart I would give anything
 To mend love's broken wings
 And fly away
